Teaching Conservation Through Recreation

Program Goals

Our goal is to create a safe learning & recreational venue for people. Ellis Equestrian Center provides a unique setting where the ecosystem, horses and people can thrive and develop. Our mission is to encourage people to enjoy learning about care of horses and their environment. Part of the fees for lessons, rentals and arena tags go toward improving recreational trails, educational efforts and protecting the environment.

Ellis Equestrian Center is also for the horses. There are many horse owners who look for an indoor ring to ride and learning opportunities to improve the care of their horses and their environment.

Ellis Equestrian Center seeks to dovetail the care of the environment with equestrian educational and recreational activities.

Program Objectives

Private lessons are based on the interest and ability of the rider and the discretion of the instructor. The first lesson will always be an introduction to balanced seat riding and review of the student's skills. Instructors build a tailored lesson program based on physical strength, skills, and individual student riding goals. As always, instructors will base lessons on our goal to develop student skills in both horsemanship and riding proficiency.

Horses can teach a student confidence, communication, empathy, responsibility, and adaptability.
